Legal Resources for estate planning, including wills and powers of attorney for financial matters and for health care

Below are the resources that might allow you to consult with an attorney about drafting a will, a power of attorney for financial matters, and a power of attorney for health care.

Income Restrictions:

(1) King County Bar Association Volunteer Legal Services, a free (pro bono) program: a lawyer drafts a simple will, power of attorney, and power or attorney for healthcare. Call 211 for a screening interview.

(2) King County Bar Association reduced-fee program: a lawyer drafts a simple will ($75), power of attorney ($35), and power of attorney for healthcare ($35). Call 211 for an eligibility interview for this program as well. This program requires a $10 application fee.

(3) Eastside Legal Assistance Program (East King County residents): a lawyer drafts a simple will, power of attorney, and directive to physician. For an eligibility interview, call (425) 747-7274.

No Income Restrictions:

(1) Senior Rights Assistance/King County Bar Association sponsors Elder Law Legal Clinics in Seattle and Kent, where you can consult with a lawyer about wills, estate planning, guardianship, powers of attorney, and end of life decisions. The lawyer will not draft documents or represent you, but will review your documents. To make an appointment, call (206) 448-5720.
